Every Letter Counts -- by Ucaoimhu

Welcome to the ACPT, where every letter counts. Some of the clues in this puzzle work normally; the initial letters of these clues, taken in order, describe a set of remarkable items hidden in the grid (arranged with standard crossword symmetry). In most of the clues, however, the cryptic part is slightly incorrect, either (1) failing to indicate one letter in the answer, or (2) cluing a single extraneous letter; there are equal numbers of both types of mistaken clues. (In either case the definition part of the clue still works normally, and the answer is entered into the grid normally.) When you locate (in the grid) the unindicated letters from (1), the extraneous letters from (2) will tell you where to find each of the hidden items.

Note: Most of the hidden items are named in the grid, but one is merely described, for obvious reasons.
