Square Route

by Ucaoimhu

This puzzle is actually in honor of a different event, not too far from the BCPT. In this puzzle,

- (1) Some of the clues have answers that must be entered with some letters removed from the front.
- (2) Some other clues (an equal number) contain a sequence of one or more extraneous words, which you must remove before solving; each such sequence is a definition of one of the modified entries from (1).

The remaining clues all work normally and have normally entered answers. When the grid has been filled, the shaded squares will provide a route to the site of the other event; the three Down answers that cross those squares will give more details of the route. In addition, the Oblique answer will tell more about the setting of the other event, a key word from this answer will quantify (1) and (2), and synonyms for both key words in this answer will tell you what letters to read in the rest of the normal clues, and how to read them, to find out what the other event is.
