

Glorious Fourth

by Ucaoimhu

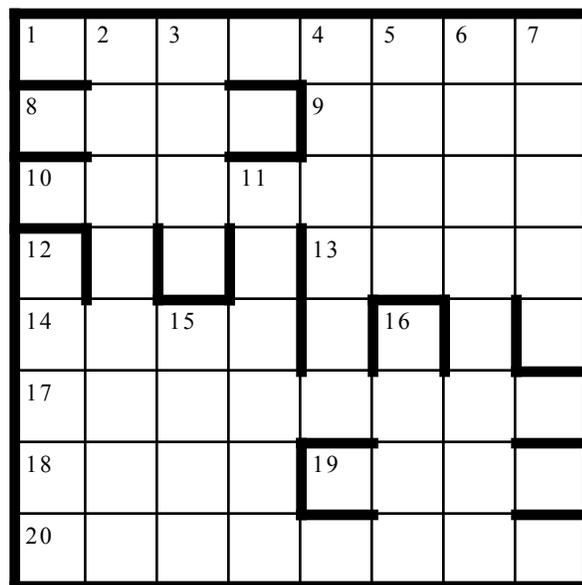

A certain number of years ago a particular event took place that we celebrate today. In honor of this, a certain number of squares in the grid will contain a certain letter sequence. Two pairs of these “special” squares will determine two diagonal lines that converge at a point outside the grid; the word there, and the contents of the special squares, both occur in the official title of a specific work. For each entry containing a special square, where that square is the *m*th from the start and the *n*th from the end, circle the *m*th letter from the start and *n*th letter from the end of the clue; all the *m*th letters followed by all the *n*th letters will give an alternative title for that work, and also say what you should be doing now that you have finished this puzzle.
