

Skipping Ahead

by Ucaomihu

Here at this puzzle picnic, thoughts of future puzzle events are already creeping in. Specifically, one word in each clue has either (1) a single extra letter or (2) an extra letter pair; either way, delete the extra item before solving. In clue order, the letters from (1) will say where to find a set of letters in the grid; circle these letters. Then use the pairs from (2), in clue order, as coordinates (referring to the circled letters), and in that order read the appropriately-sized set of letters you find. Using one convention for how the coordinates work, you can find out how far off this future puzzle event is; using the opposite convention, you can obtain my prediction about the people who will attend it.
